	Kaoli Granas

Carol (or Kaoli) Granas was born in the Sierra Foothills of California and grew up in Sacramento where she was exposed to the mountains, snow and lakes, defining her early love of nature. Later in life, she started sharing her time between Maui and California.

Maui strengthened Carol's appreciation of natural beauty and her interest in the mystical stories of the islands. Those influences are now expressed in her ceramic work combining shapes, colors, and expressions of Maui. Each piece Carol creates is handcrafted and unique.

Carol entered the world of ceramics after a longtime desire to express herself in art and when her life allowed her to pause from the daily routines to dedicate the time to her newfound passion. She works in her own home studio and is also a long time student and volunteer in a local community college. Carol also sells her ceramics in Los Gatos, California where she has a second home.
